

SECOND CONTINGENT OF AMERICAN TROOPS ARRIVES SAFELY AT A FRENCH PORT

Wild Welcome Awaits Troops as They Disembark After Passing Through Dangers of the German Submarine Zone Unscathed; Harbor Dotted With Convoys and Port is Busy Getting Camp Ready for the American Forces.

WILL SOON BE MOVED TO A POINT NEAR FRONT

A FRENCH SEAPORT, June 27.—The second contingent of American troops arrived and disembarked this morning. The troops landed amid the frantic cheers of the people, who had gathered for hours before in anticipation of duplicating yesterday's surprise. Enthusiasm rose to fever pitch when it was learned that the transports and convoys had successfully passed the submarine zone. The port was speedily belaguered in honor of the occasion.

All the troops now arrived were transferred today to a camp not distant from this point, where Major General William L. Sibert is installed. Thence they probably will go soon to a point near the front. All the troops are in excellent shape, enthusiastic over the successful trip and their reception, and are eager for action.

Major General Pershing is expected tomorrow when additional troops are expected. The harbor is dotted with convoys. The streets are filled with soldiers in khaki and with bluejackets. Trucks are transporting immense supplies to the camp in which the troops are concentrating.

RECRUITING WEEK HALF OVER;

50,000 MORE MEN NEEDED

WASHINGTON, June 27.—With recruiting week half gone War Department officials estimated today that the regular army still is more than 50,000 men short of war strength, the goal that it has been hoped to attain by Friday night.

On the face of the returns so far it is apparent that there has been a general response among men of military age to President Wilson's call for 70,000 volunteers during the week to fill up the ranks of the regular establishment and thus complete the first big military preparation in the war against Germany.

Returns for the first three days, in fact, were below the average of the weeks preceding. They were far below the expectation of officials here who had been confident that the President's direct and earnest appeal for volunteers would bring home to thousands the fact that their country needs them at once.

Only nine states are on the honor roll of those who have completed their quotas of war volunteers. Only eight others have their quotas 75 per cent complete. Twenty are below the 50 per cent line and six are below 25 per cent.

Pennsylvania's percentage on the returns to Monday night was 23.

FAYETTE SHOULD SUPPLY

AT LEAST 100 RECRUITS

Fayette county has been allotted 100 recruits in the campaign to secure 70,000 volunteers for regular army service this week. Only one has been accepted so far. Corporal H. E. Fellows, in charge of the Uniontown recruiting depot, has instructed every postmaster in the district of the drive for recruits and better results are expected toward the end of the week.

PRESIDENT TO DECIDE

ON BUDGET PROHIBITION.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A compromise was reached yesterday by the Senate subcommittee on agriculture on the anti-liquor tangle provoked by the House amendment to the Lever food bill, by which the President would have power to say if the manufacture and sale of beer and wines is to be allowed during the war.

The House prohibition against all manufacture of whiskey, wine or beer was adopted by a split vote. The authority given the President to consider "the public interest would be conserved thereby."

AMERICAN SAILING SHIP

IS SUNK BY A BOAT

LONDON, June 27.—The American sailing ship Galena, 200 tons, was sunk by a bomb on June 25. There were no casualties. The Galena was sunk off L'Island, off the coast of France, 25 miles northwest of Brest. Fifteen survivors were taken to Brest.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The Galena

was formerly the Argentine Steamer Suez. She left here March 22 with a cargo for Bremen, France. She carried a crew of 18 men, commanded by Captain T. V. Marshall, among whom, according to the records of the United States commissioner of shipping there were eight Americans.

HAVE CLOSING IN ON LENS;

NO FRENCH ADVANCE.

While General Haig is closing in so closely on Lens that the capture by the British of that coal mining city and its adjacent fields seems immient, it is a question whether the British offensive will be accompanied by any offensive move by the French on a like scale.

Although there has been more or less constant jockeying for position by the two commanders along the Aisne and Champagne fronts, particularly the former, the German activities appear more like efforts to choke off any possible extended movement by the French than anything else.

On the other hand, General Petain's occasional strokes give the impression that all he is trying to do is to preserve his vantage point as the basis for resuming the French advance at some future time when that effort seems advisable.

The most important of the recent French drives was that of Monday at Hurlerville west of Craonne. The Germans seemed to have suffered considerable depletion here, one of the positions taken being a fortress which has served the Crown Prince well as a point of departure in counterattacks. No further attempts to retake the lost ground at Hurlerville were made last night, the Germans contenting themselves with a spirited bombardment.

Cumulative evidence is that all Russian opinion of influential character is now set against any idea of separate peace.

The powerful congress of the soldiers and workmen's council is emphatic on this point in a resolution just adopted.

The program of the Entente increases continuously, to develop more tangibly. It is now evident that it is their purpose in Greece to cause the convocation of the parliament of May 31, 1915, which was controlled by the Venizelists, having a majority favorable to the Entente cause. It was the dissolution of this parliament that has been denounced as unconstitutional by the Allies, the act being one of the counts of the indictment of Constantinople as a betrayer of his people.

DES MOINES IS CHOSEN

ARMY CANTONMENT SITE.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Des Moines, Iowa, was finally confirmed today by Secretary Baker as the site of one of the 16 national army cantonment sites after receipt of a supplemental report from Major General Henry, commanding the Central department. The general stated that after personal examination of the grounds he was entirely satisfied of its suitability for military purposes.

WANT TRUTH ABOUT

MESOPOTAMIA EXPEDITION.

LONDON, June 27.—Andrew Bonar Law, member of the British war council, was bombarded in the House of Commons this afternoon with questions regarding the action the government intended to take against those accused of culpability in the report of the Mesopotamia expedition, made public last night in the blue book. He replied that he would rather make no statement until the House has time to consider the report but "it was the obvious duty of the government to take immediate action with regard to those who specially were accused of culpability."

AMERICAN BOOMERS, WELL

ENLIVENED, ARRIVE IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, June 27.—Ten units of American boomers sent over by New England states and organizations to cut various forests of the United Kingdom into lumber have arrived. The complete equipment of the unit caused much surprise and occasioned a great deal of favorable comment. The boomers brought with them not only the necessary machinery but were fully equipped in every way, even to lubricating oil. Their arrival found them ready to establish a lumber camp.

CUMBERLAND, Md., June 27.—Mrs. Minnie Carter told the hands of her husband in a bed while he slept off a debauch last night and then fired three shots into him, killing him instantly. After the shooting she ran two miles to a neighbor and announced the tragedy.

Mrs. Carter was recently discharged from a hospital and yesterday, she says, her husband who had been drinking, threw her out of the house. Made desperate by continued abuse, the woman says, the revolver was her only means of defense.

EDITOR HELD

Rockwood Socialist Arrested For Refusal to Register for Draft.

Eber K. Cockley, editor of the Rockwood Pioneer, a Socialist publication, was held in $2,500 bond for court at Pittsburgh yesterday by United States Commissioner Roger Knox on the charge of having failed to register under the selective military service act. He was arrested Sunday by Sheriff Lester Wagner of Somerset county. Cockley was given opportunity to register at the hearing, but refused to do so, saying he stood on his constitutional rights and that he believed the act to be unconstitutional.

Cockley was brought to Connellsville by United States Deputy Marshal F. C. Beatty, and lodged in the lockup, where he spent Monday night, being taken to Pittsburgh yesterday morning. He was Baltimore and Ohio telegraph operator at Markers, in addition to his editorial activities. At one time he was located in the local dispatchers' office, and served also as operator at Greene Junction.

OPERATORS PROMISE

PRICE OF COAL WILL

BE KEPT REASONABLE

Producers Answer the Government's Threat to Take Over Their Mines.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 27.—Assurances that the government and general public will be furnished coal at a reasonable price were given by representatives of both hard and soft coal interests who again today conferred with the National Defense Council's coal committee.

This is the coal operators' answer to warnings by Secretaries Lane and Daniels and others that, unless they established fair prices and proper regulation their output would be taken over by the government.

The price of coal is to be determined with the defense council coal committee's approval by a special producers' committee, which aims also to increase production and facilitate distribution.

The conference today received nominations for special committees representing each coal mine state and selected, pursuant to resolutions adopted by the operators to fix the price of coal.

SENATE COMMITTEE IS

CONSIDERING COAL PRICES.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Hearings before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee on bills proposing the fixing by the government of arbitrary prices of coal and railroad supplies were resumed today with coal operators from Ohio and Western Pennsylvania as witnesses.

Representatives of the city of Cleveland also appeared to protest against the price of fuel in that city. From information gained through the hearings, which will take into consideration the production, distribution and transportation of fuel, the committee will probably propose amendments to the food bill now being debated in the Senate looking to governmental regulation of basic commodities.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL

FOR COPPER, LEAD, ZINC.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Copper, lead and zinc producers, and their additional articles to which government control might be extended during the war under amendments to the food control bill adopted today by the Senate agriculture committee.

MEDICAL OFFICERS

AT FT. OGLETHORPE

ARE HARD AT WORK

Future of World Depends Upon War Surgeons' Training They Are Told.

Camp is Ideal One, He Says: Many Celebrated Doctors and Surgeons Are There, Including About Half of Penn's Best Hospital Routine.

LETTER FROM CAPT. EDIE

Camp is Ideal One, He Says: Many Celebrated Doctors and Surgeons Are There, Including About Half of Penn's Best Hospital Routine.

A letter from Captain E. B. Edie of Connellsville, now at the Medical Officers Training camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, to Mrs. Edie, contains the following interesting description of the camp and army life:

"Fort Oglethorpe is reached by trolley, a 45 minute ride from Chattanooga. The fort, a regular army post, adjoins Chattahoochee park and comprises about 47,000 acres. In addition to the regular army, comprising about 20,000 infantry and cavalry, at this time there is an Officers' Training camp of 3,500 and a Medical Officers' Training camp of 600.

"The interned Germans are stationed just below the army post hospital and are very comfortably situated. One night a German orchestra gave a concert of light opera music, which was enjoyed by all the soldiers. There were several hundred German sailors behind the wire fence and about 1,000 American soldiers across the road on the grass of the parade grounds. About one-half mile from the training camps, 4,000 soldiers of the Sixth and Eleventh regiments are camped in tents.

"Oglethorpe is very hot in day time but cool at night. Dr. Coll of the 23rd regular army regiment, who has been in China, the Philippines, Panama, and Haiti, said it was hotter in Oglethorpe than any place he had ever been.

"On Sundays many of the men take sight-seeing rides over Missionary Ridge and to Lookout Mountain, which is right above Chattanooga, 1,750 feet. A wonderful view of rolling country and winding river, and, to the west, a beautiful stretch of the Cumberland mountains. On a clear day, seven states may be seen from Lookout.

"The site of the fort is a wonderful one for a camp, situated as it is among the mountains and surrounded by beautiful old woods of oaks and pines.

"The real training began Monday. The medical officers assembled under the trees and Colonel Puse addressed them. He said they would be trained in medical organization as the future of the world depended on that. In November, 1914, the French returned 23 per cent of sick and wounded to the line, while the Germans returned 87 per cent; all a matter of superior medical organization. Colonel Page said he believed this to be the most momentous time since the birth of Christ and the future of the world would be determined by the American. When nearly through talking, Colonel Page fell to the ground unconscious. After he had been revived and taken to his tent, the adjutant told the men that Colonel Page had been ill all night and they had tried to keep him from leaving his tent that morning, but he was determined to do his part. Seeing such men earnestly building up this great army and giving their best years and efforts, makes the situation very impressive and gets one into the spirit of the army.

"Many celebrated doctors and surgeons are at Oglethorpe. About half of the University of Pennsylvania base hospital, which was ready some time ago to start for France, but was not sent; and Dr. Wayne Babcock of Philadelphia, and Dr. Baker of Pittsburgh, are among them.

"The schedule looks big on paper but does not seem hard when you are in the work. We rise at 5:30, have a morning exercise, 5:30, morning 6:30, drill from 7:00 to four hours, two hours' lecture, one and a half hours' quiz, more drill and study in the evenings. We retire about 10 o'clock."

TO ILLUMINATE BRIDGE.

Pennsylvania Erecting Searchlight Tower at Western End.

The Pennsylvania railroad is erecting a searchlight tower on the rear of H. M. Smurr's property at the western end of the railroad bridge over the Yough. A light to be placed on it will play light on all parts of the span thus aiding the soldiers on guard in detecting anyone who might venture around for an reprehensible purpose.

Lumber has also been deposited on the east side of the bridge for another tower. Just where this will be located has not been indicated.

Weather Forecast

Overcast tonight; Thursday probably showers; not much change in temperature; in the noon weather forecast for Western Pennsylvania.

TESTAMENTS GIVEN

TO ENLISTED MEN OF

U. B. BIBLE CLASS

Enjoyable Reception at Church is Attended by 275 Friends of Soldiers.

Not the least interesting of last night's patriotic events was a reception at the United Presbyterian church for enlisted members of the Young Men's Bible class, at which about 275 persons were present.

Of the 25 youths in the class, 11 are registered for military draft and six have enlisted in Company D, Tenth Regiment, or the hospital corps. Pocket-size Testaments were presented to the following enlisted men: Frank Leichter, Claude McKee, Glen Will, Wilbur Stillwagon, Raymond Rude and William Truby. There was tremendous applause as the six stood to receive the volumes.

The program opened with music by an orchestra, followed by a scripture reading from Joshua 1:1-10, appropriate to the occasion because of its description of Joshua's preparation to obey the Lord's command and prepare his troops to cross Jordan and enter the promised land.

After a solo by L. C. Hoover there was an address by O. O. Osterweis, an anthem by the choir, an address by Rev. Showers, a selection by a ladies' quartet and the program closed with an address by L. C. Hoover, teacher of the class.

BIG PENSION FUND

Legislature Appropriates $400,000 for Mothers' Assistance.

HARRISBURG, June 27.—Mothers and teachers won out in the Pennsylvania legislature last night, when, in the House the teachers' retirement and pension fund bill was passed finally and sent on its way to the governor, and when, in the Senate, the mothers' pension fund was given $400,000 for the next two years, and the bill appropriating the sum sent to the chief executive.

The teachers' retirement bill, introduced by Senator Tompkins of Cambria, provides a system by which teachers shall be retired on a pension, the fund for which shall be contributed, one-half and one-quarter by the school district. An appropriation of $100,000 is made to give the project a start.

READY TO QUIT

Legislature Plans to Clean Up Its Calendar Today.

HARRISBURG, June 27.—The General Assembly of 1917 today began its last day of real work and when the legislative day ends in the early hours of tomorrow morning both houses will have cleared their calendars of bills and nothing will remain but the formal ceremonies attending the winding up of the session.

Both houses adjourned near midnight until 11 o'clock today when consideration of Senate bills was taken up in the House and House bills in the Senate. The Senate is well along with its work and aside from the $25,000,000 road bill, the House anti-liquor bill, and one or two other measures it has nothing of importance on its calendar.

LEG CAUGHT; BONE BREAKS

Proffer Man's Limb Wedged Between Pipes and He Falls.

Two new patients, both employees of the H. C. Frick Coke company and much suffering from a fractured leg, are at the Cottage State hospital. Charles Arnold, 66 years old, employed at Trooper, slipped and fell dead this morning while walking on two large pipes, rendered slippery by the rain. His right leg became wedged between the pipes and when he fell a bone snapped.

John Stibmhor, 42 years old, was caught by a fall of slate yesterday afternoon in the mines at Leisenring No. 3, suffering a fracture of the left leg.

MAY EXAMINE COCCI.

Confessed Murderer Declared by Council to be Insane.

BOLOGNA, June 27.—An effort will probably be made to have Alfredo Cocchi, the slayer of Ruth Cruger in New York, undergo a mental examination.

Signor Venturini, Cocchi's attorney, believes such an examination is indispensable as he is of the opinion that the man is not responsible for his acts. According to the defense, even Cocchi's behavior in prison is not entirely that of a sane person.

Grainford Base Arrives.

The base for the Colonel William Crawford statue arrived here late Monday afternoon over the Pennsylvania railroad, and is on the tracks now. The base is in three massive sections. It was reported last recently, after it had been shipped, and the Memorial commission postponed the dedication indefinitely for this reason.

Senate Lovers, Daylight Saving.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The daylight saving bill, amended to take effect next year, passed the Senate today without discussion. All timepieces would be turned forward one hour beginning the last Sunday in April and continuing until the last Sunday in September.

PARADE AND PATRIOTIC RALLY CELEBRATE CITY'S WONDERFUL SUCCESS IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Campaign Teams, Veterans of Past Wars, Navy League, Rifle Club, Boy Scouts, Red Cross Women, Bands and Patriotic Citizens March to Bandstand Where Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen and Attorney J. R. Cray Speak

NAVY LEAGUE SAILOR GIRLS MAKE A BIG HIT

Connellsville celebrated its victory in the Red Cross war fund campaign last night with a parade and speaking at the band stand, all of a congratulatory nature.

"The spirit of rivalry between the teams of workers continued through the parade. Banners carried by the members of the teams proclaimed the glories of each bunch of campaigners. No. 6 team, which put up such a stout fight against No. 1 team for the lead, had one which read, 'They Drove the Boys to the Mountains, All Wright.' Another declared, '$38,000 Was Made Possible by the Untiring Efforts and Square Dealing of No. 6.' Others read: 'They Went Warped to Do It No More—Team No. 6.' 'Old No. 6: Honest, Fearless and True, Made All the Others Feel Blue.' No. 1's banners gave 'Thanks to Confidence, Upsilon, Dunbar, Indian Creek Valley,' declared 'We Did Our Bit—No Slackers,' and told all that 'Connellsville Kept the Red Cross Flag Flying.' 'Team No. 1,' one sign read, 'Knocked the Hump off the Camel (George W.).' Another said, 'The Camels Are Coming,' and Team No. 6 followed right after.

No. 8's banners declared that 'We Would Rather Be Fifth Than Wright,' and that its workers had secured 'Not the Largest Contributors, But Most of Them.' 'Who Wanted to Quit—No. 6,' another sign read. Another one read, 'No Cash Register, But Pledges and Cash.'

No. 2 team also marched, but had no banners. The Navy League comforters branch had a big part in the parade. About 40 women, all in white, marched. Leading them were E. T. Norton, H. C. Norton, J. L. Stader, J. C. Whitley, R. A. Neville, J. R. Mastreza, A. D. Solosen and Dr. W. J. Bailey. Harold Horner and Donald Higbee, wearing the knitted helmets which the branch is helping furnish to our sailors in the North sea, followed.

Scared Off Burglars.
Hearing sounds outside his home about 1 o'clock Sunday morning John Ackerman of West Washington avenue, discovered a man standing beneath his diningroom window. Ackerman, on awakening, looked down from his bedroom but was not able to recognize the man.

Securing a revolver he fired at the man eight times. When he fired the shots, two others ran from the diningroom of the house and made their getaway.

That one of the thieves was hit is the opinion of Ackerman, who says that after he had fired a shot, the man jumped and yelled. Footprints in his garden seemed to indicate that the other two men carried one away with them, leaving his belief that one shot took effect.

On the dinningroom floor a derby hat was found, with the letters "H. M." printed on the band. Whether this hat was taken elsewhere has not yet been learned. Entrance to the house was gained through a collar window.

The home of Glen Gribble on Cottage avenue was also entered Sunday night. The robbery was not discovered until the next morning. The family retired early and have no idea at what time the robbery occurred.

The thieves got a small sum of money, but overlooked a much larger amount that was in the house.

The Glorious Privilege of Being Independent

No man can be independent who is a slave to liquor. Think this over. There are thousands who, as soon as they open their eyes, take a drink. All that day and into the night this indulgence is continued with more or less frequency. Men who are nervous drink to quiet their nerves. Men who can't sleep will drink in their effort to woo Morpheus. They drink for this reason or that, drink to the certain ruin of their own health; drink, drink, drink until capacity for business is impaired and they join the crowd "moving back."

They don't know why they drink. This will hit many a man whose system is saturated with the poison of alcohol and he doesn't know it. It is because of this poison in the system that desire for drink is so persistent and insistent.

To become a master of self-independent of the appetite call to drink this poison must be neutralized and eliminated from the system.

Here's where the Neal Treatment comes in. This physician's remedy—purely vegetable, taken internally, with no hypodermic injections—does the trick in three short days. That's all. These days spent at the beautiful home on Winchell Ave., will be sufficient to change intense craving for liquor into intense dislike for everything alcoholic.

More than 5,000 former hard drinkers have successfully been treated in the Ohio and Pennsylvania Neal Institutes, rejoicing in their new-found independence—absolutely freed from the bondage of drink-happy souls with eyes brightened, brains cleared and bodies strengthened.

If you want to be independent or have a friend you'd like to save from drink's hold, address the Neal Institute, 373 Winchell Ave., Pittsburg, Pa. Phone Highland 1380. Open day and night. Other Neal Institutes located at Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Detroit.—Adv.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

About 20 ladies met this morning at the Red Cross headquarters in the Federal building to sew for the Red Cross. Mrs. F. W. Wright of the workroom committee and her aides, Mrs. Josephine Reid and Mrs. J. H. Hogg, were present to lend assistance in the work. Since the opening of the rooms a few weeks ago much work has been accomplished. Despite the fact that many of the women of Conneltsville and vicinity have given over much of their time to the work, there is still a larger need for help. The women should not expect to be invited but should be only too glad to help carry on this noble and important work. Any assistance they may lend will be greatly appreciated by the workroom committee. The rooms are open to all from 9 to 12 o'clock each morning, with the exception of Saturday and are open in the afternoon to any of the church societies, clubs or other organizations wishing to sew for the Red Cross. ## LOSES GAS TANK

J. Fred Kurtz's Car Suffers a Vital Injury.

J. Fred Kurtz, the coal and coke magnate, started for Uniontown in his automobile the other night and as he sped northwardly up the West Side hill his attention was diverted from the job of driving by the shouts of some small boys.

"Hey, you lost your gas tank," they said, and Mr. Kurtz was much chagrined to find that they spoke the truth. The 16-gallon gasoline receptacle had been as successful as Houdini in freeing itself from the bolts and bands that shackled it to the back of the machine and was reposing upon its ear in the middle of the road, its life blood seeping from a wound where the engine supply pipe had been broken off.

Automobile drivers of long experience state that they never before heard of a car losing a gas tank. In this particular instance it was originally held in place by iron bands bolted to the frame. The machine might have run for a half mile on the supply of gasoline in the vacuum feed system tank.

BOOSTS AUTO FEES

Bill Now Pending Will Make Minimum License $10.

Special to The Courier.
HARRISBURG, June 27.—An agreement has been reached whereby the Buckman auto bill, which increased the license on all automobiles, will be dropped from consideration, and the Mearle bill, the first auto license bill of the session, will be amended in the Senate and rushed through.

The amendment, it is estimated, will give the state an additional $400,000 or $500,000 a year. The amendment as planned reduces the age limit for drivers from 18 to 16 years, and changes the half year license limit from July 1 to September 1. The minimum license for pneumatic tire vehicles under 35 horsepower is fixed at $10. This increases the rate for all pleasure cars.

The license for solid tire cars which are mostly trucks, is $10 for 3,000 pounds or less and $5 for each additional thousand pounds. The dealers' license is increased from $10 to $15. The law would go into effect January 1 next.

DONOVAN-SCARRY

Pretty Wedding in St. Vincent de Paul Church Today.

Miss Elsie Patricia Donovan, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Donovan of Leisnering No. 1, and Frederick R. Scarry, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Scarry, of this city, were married this morning at 7:30 o'clock in St. Vincent de Paul's church at Leisnering, of which the bride is a member, by Rev. Father J. J. Grogan. The bride wore a sand silk poplin traveling suit, a large mallow and mallow picture hat, and carried roses. Her maid of honor, Miss Olive Rowan, appeared in a blue tailored suit and a large white hat. John Conway was best man.

Following the ceremony a prettily appointed wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. Covers were laid for about 30, including only the members of the two families and a few intimate friends. A charming pink and white color scheme, with Kilmarnock roses forming the decorations, was carried out.

Mr. and Mrs. Scarry are widely and favorably known. The bride was graduated from the Dunbar township schools, having taught at Trotter for five terms. The bridegroom is a Baltimore & Ohio engine inspector in Conneltsville. Mr. Scarry and his bride left this morning for a wedding trip to Philadelphia, Atlantic City, North Carolina and other points of interest.

Among the out of town guests present were Miss Sallinda Kindle of McKees Rocks, Pa., and Mrs. J. W. Miller of Farmington, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donovan of Seaford.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side and a general weakness. ## CARE FOR OUR OWN.

During the past week we have been giving our dollars that the Red Cross may be equipped to take care of our boys when they are wounded or stricken with disease on the battle fields of Europe. In our giving we have not selfishly restricted our thoughts to the possible needs of the boys who have gone or are preparing to go from Conneltsville and vicinity. Yielding ourselves to the impulse to contribute to a humane cause we have not given simply because Conneltsville will furnish many stalwart young men in answer to our country's call. With a desire that not one of Uncle Sam's soldiers or sailors, no matter from whence he sails, shall lack for a single attention or care in time of need, we have given gladly and freely.

While we have met our obligations and privileges in a truly commendable way, in raising a magnificent sum for the Red Cross, there remains another duty to be performed. Company D and the Hospital Corps will shortly take their places in the expeditionary forces to be sent to France. We have just pride in these Conneltsville organizations as competent parts of the Tenth regiment, as well as a personal and community interest in the membership. During the service upon which they are about to enter they will have many wants and needs which can be supplied by but one means, and that is through what is known as a Company Fund.

This is a sum of money, designed to augment the slender pay of the enlisted men, in custody of the company commander, and expendable under his direction, to provide for emergencies and contingencies not covered by army regulations. Every officer and enlisted man who has ever served in either the militia or regular army knows from experience, and sometimes very unpleasant experience, that a company fund is a necessity. Without it the members of a company will suffer for many of the little things which even the Red Cross cannot supply, but which serve so effectively to take some of the rough edges off of soldiering.

In the National Guard organization it has long been considered to reflect discredit upon a community for its company to go into camp or upon other duty without a company fund. Absence of such a fund has been taken as evidence of a serious lack of local pride and interest in such an organization and it suffers no little embarrassment in contrast with others amply equipped in this regard.

Other companies in the Tenth regiment will each have a liberal fund for the people of Conneltsville, Uniontown and other sections of Fayette county having representation in Company D and the Hospital Corps, to make similar provision for these organizations. Since we have made no gratifying a record in raising a fund for the general use of the Red Cross in caring for the sick and wounded of all our fighting units, it would be embarrassing to our discredit if we allow Captain Morton to march away with our own boys less well provided than the boys of other company commanders in the Tenth.

The suggestion of Captain Harry Dunn to raise such a fund for Company D should be acted upon promptly. If a part of the Red Cross fund cannot be diverted to this purpose, it can be raised by other means. It must not be said of us that we will not care for those of our own household.

INFERIOR SIDEWALKS.

Council has very properly taken up the matter of providing protection to property owners from inferior sidewalk construction by contractors. The only regret is that action was not taken earlier. Had it been done, a number of sidewalks laid during the past year would not now be pointed out as being very poor advertisements for the builders and a source of great dissatisfaction to the owners of the properties before which they were laid.

The city has an ordinance prescribing in very minute detail the method of constructing sidewalks, specifications for the material used and such regulations as will provide for uniformity in both quality and width. An improvement of this character should lack nothing in the qualities which will insure its permanence. These improvements are made with a view to adding to the beauty and serviceability of our streets. They involve large expenditures and the property owners making them should be given full value received.

Inasmuch as council has full power to require such improvements to be made, and to prescribe the manner and form, it would appear to be within the functions of this body to also require the reconstruction of such sidewalks as did not fully conform to the specifications. The property owners have acted in good faith in the improvement and should not be required to make good the delinquencies of a contractor who has used inferior materials or performed his work imperfectly.

Compelling contractors to re-lay poorly constructed sidewalks would very effectively tend to discourage the industry.

"They Also Serve Who Stay Behind"—And Work

By MARIAN DONNELL DAVIS.

"The Red Cross," said the mother of three young men who have just put on the khaki, "is my training camp. It is for me my military duty. It gives me a chance to be a soldier with my sons."

"Sometimes a company from the armory or a band of boy scouts marching with life and drums passes my window. Looking at them I see in my mind all our boys at all our training camps, learning their new lessons, testing their endurance. And we mothers can't take care of them."

"They've gone into their man's world."

"I think I can imagine some of the emotions that are being born in them. They are so young: . . . their eyes are misty, sometimes, as they march. . . . Already they must look sometimes into the soldiers' immortality, at guard mount—taps on the Memorial Day."

"It is hard to be a woman. Yet it is not for me these three clear-eyed boys, with their straight backs, their dashed, dumpy faces, and their passionate young idealism, would not exist. Because of me there are three soldiers serving the colors.

"It is glorious to be a woman. I take up my sewing-box and sew a little Red Cross on the jacket of the pajamas I am making and wonder who will wear it and what the Red Cross will make him think of. Curiously, even if my boys are in the hospital to which this garment goes, I want it to be worn by some other mother's boy; and I want my boys to wear the things made by some other mother. Some way it seems to me to make our motherhood go deeper."

"Perhaps it will be worn by some black man, or some black boy from Africa, who will think it is funny; perhaps some young French officer; perhaps some Italian peasant like my ice man; perhaps some wounded German prisoner. . . . And I have the privilege of giving to the soldiers of the world."

"It glorifies the material I work with. Thrillingly it glorifies money. Think! One cent buys iodine to disinfect a wound! If the iodine shouldn't be there— But it won't fail. Mothers can't and fathers won't let it fail, now they know."

WAR BOND BUYERS.

An analysis of the Liberty Loan subscriptions reveals the interesting fact that nearly three times as many Americans subscribed to their first war loan as there were subjects of Germany subscribing to that country's first loan. Approximately 4,000,000 Americans subscribed $2,935,226,550, or an over-subscription of 52 per cent. The subscriptions to the first German loan amounted to only $1,115,000,000, which was an under-subscription of about 12 per cent, and were made by but 1,177,235 persons.

The experience of the nations now at war has been that later war loans are subscribed to by more persons than the initial loan. Germany's second war loan was subscribed to the extent of $2,265,000,000 by 2,691,000 persons; her third, $3,025,000,000 by 3,866,415 persons; her fourth, $2,678,000,000 by 5,279,045 persons, and her fifth, $2,555,000,000 by 2,899,976 persons.

That our loan was so largely over-subscribed and that so many persons expressed their desire to share in the loan is significant of the fact that the masses of the American people are standing solidly behind the government. It is notice to Germany that every material resource of our country is at the command of the government in the war Prussianism has forced upon us, and that they will be used without stint in order to achieve the end aimed at. It is also an indication that the success of such subscription war loans as the government may find it necessary to issue is already assured, and that the patriotic American public can be relied upon to respond to whatever call may be made upon it.

The citizen who makes use of the line to sit on needs to be on.

The West Side has gone "dry" again, but it is still "wet." The rain from the down pump has ceased to flow, but other liquids are still available.

Want America take care of its soldiers? Read the answer in the Red Cross fund subscriptions, William.

THE MULE.

The mule is a meek and lowly beast of burden with long, vibrating ears and a maddening temper. A great many people have approached a mule in a spirit of friendship and good will, and after leading carefully on his right hip have been introduced to his temper with so much success that they had to be carried home in a bed blanket.

The mule is constructed in a very compact and substantial manner, out of durable material, and is harder to kill than a piece of scandal with a comforter which has been introduced to the owner. He knows the real age or longevity of the mule, as most of them die hurriedly as he is able to be removed from the owner. There is something pathetic about an aged, careworn mule, with thin, gray cheeks which have been introduced to the last resting place by an excited owner who is carrying a grudge and a drain pipe in his left leg.

The mule is not a good looking animal, but is far more useful to man. The horse has to be fed on hay and corn every once in a while, while the mule lives on straw and the husk of revenge. The mule is not an bright monthly as the horse, either, and is given to deep fits of depression, during which he should not be disturbed. Nobody ever attempted to arouse a mule from a fit of depression without hearing the low, ingratiating report of

FOOD and WAR

Shortage in raw materials gives rise to alarm among manufacturing interests—America must apply every resource to meet the world's demand for food—Labor saving machines and man power on the farms vital factors in economic crisis—Appeal for government action.

Government action ensuring the farmers of America ample supplies of farm implements and equipment in the war, declare the manufacturers of farming tools and machinery in the United States. This action must be immediate and radical, they say, or in 1918 the United States will fail to produce foodstuffs necessary to feed the civil population of our allies and to keep the allied armies in fighting trim.

This declaration is made in a public statement by the National Implement and Vehicle Association, whose members manufacture most of the farming implements used in and exported from the United States. It is the Association's answer to an anxious inquiry about reports of a prospective implement shortage addressed to it in behalf of the country's farming interests by ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Wisconsin, one of the leaders of American agriculture and publisher of Hoard's Dairyman. The statement, which is signed by Charles S. Birmingham, Chairman of the Association's Executive Committee, says:

"The truth is, that unless prompt action is taken by the Government, our country is headed straight toward the same mistakes that have resulted in compelling our allies to appeal to us to save them from famine. Unless we protect the production of labor-saving farm machinery and the supply of skilled farm labor we too must soon face a shrinkage of food supplies. Anybody can realize how calamitous that would be in the military as well as the economic sense."

"The trouble with the food production of Europe is far from the battle zones, in fields that lie idle for lack of men and machinery to cultivate them. The same trouble is due to overwork us soon. Without such action as is here suggested and urged, the farmers of the United States will not have enough men or men in 1918 to meet the demands upon them."

"We are now confronted by shortages of raw material and factory labor that will begin to be manifest in shortages of certain lines of farm machinery this fall and will result in serious shortages in many vital lines next year. Stocks on hand in important kinds of tools and machines are smaller than in normal years, because of earlier scarcity of factory labor and a rapidly tightening security of all raw materials. Present and prospective conditions as to both elements make it certain that the shortage of our output will soon be serious."

"Farmers have deferred during the last three years the replacing of old and badly worn tools and machines. Now, confronted by the practical certainty that they will be unable to obtain adequately, with attendant assurance of heavy demand and high prices for all their products, and by an inevitable shortage of farm labor, they cannot put off longer replacements of worn out machines and the additions to equipment necessary to increase acreage and production."

"It is also essential to meeting the demand of the farmers for implements that there shall be preference in transportation for raw materials to the factories and for finished goods from the factories to the farms."

"For the last two years farm labor has been more and more difficult to secure, and now with an enormous increase in the demand for labor in munition factories, and the withdrawal of many young men from productive occupations, there is bound to be a shortage of farm labor such as this country has never known. In Kansas alone a vast number of fertile acres on which the wheat crop failed will lie idle this summer, chiefly for lack of labor and partly through lack of machines to replace it."

"We regard it as vital to keep on the farms the men now there who know the business, especially the men trained in the use of labor-saving machinery. It would be wasteful and foolish to let them go and afterward try to replace them with unskilled men."

"We seek no advantage for our industry over any other, but we realize and we want the public to realize that without this product and without sufficient labor the farmers of the United States cannot increase or even maintain their production of foodstuffs next year. To avert the calamity that such a condition will surely produce, our industry and the farming industry which it closely supports must be put upon the same preferred basis as the making of war munitions, even if other less vital industries suffer thereby for materials and men. It is as important to fill the soldier's stomach as his cartridge box."

"It is also the imperative duty of the United States to keep up our exports of agricultural implements. Our allies look to us now more than ever for labor-saving equipment for their farms. Every farm implement and machine we can send abroad will help powerfully to relieve the drain on our own resources of foodstuffs. It is better for ourselves and our allies to send them the means of production rather than the product."

"These are the measures that we declare to be vital to the feeding of this nation and its allies next year."

"1. That the manufacture of farm materials be given equal preference with the manufacture of war munitions as regards supplies of necessary raw materials."

"2. That service to the country in farm machinery factories be considered of equal importance with service in munition making plants, Government or private."

"3. That labor on the farms be considered as of equal importance with the production of war munitions."

"4. That the raw materials for farming machinery and the finished goods be given equal preference by the transportation agencies of the country with munitions of war."

"These measures must be taken immediately to be effective, because the use and demand for farming machinery are seasonal. We must have right now materials and the men to make the farm machinery that the farmer at home and abroad must use this fall and next spring. Delay in action will be as disastrous as failure to act at all."

Sauer, a Boston physician, who has studied widely both in this country and in great European medical institutions, in a recent discourse. They are the ones that do not dare. The others are in the working class. Sleepless nights spent worrying over supposed ailments, constant dozing with habit forming drugs and narcotics for nervous weakness, stomach, liver or kidney diseases and useless attempts to brace up with strong coffee or other stimulants are what keep them suffering and vainly looking to be strong. Their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. Without iron the blood has no power to change food into living tissue and therefore, nothing you eat does you any good. The moment iron is supplied the multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the time, double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of every sign of dyspepsia, liver and other trouble in from 10 to 14 days simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after not at least in some cases been doctoring for months without any benefit. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. There is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and sound, healthy flesh on your bones. But you must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron. If you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. NOTE—Nuxated iron, recommended above by Dr. E. Sauer, is one of the newer organic iron compounds. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in nuxated iron, that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 50 who lacks iron, and increase their strength 100 percent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund their money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by A. A. Clarke and all good druggists.

Place Orders for Food Containers at Once

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.—In order to avoid serious delay and probable food loss during the approaching harvest season, growers and shippers are urged by the United States Department of Agriculture to estimate accurately their needs and place their orders for barrels, crates, bampers, baskets and other containers for food production at once. They should notify manufacturers to begin making deliveries immediately, or at least as soon as their crops are reasonably assured. Larger supplies of containers will be needed this season than usual. Since crops of most perishable production must be moved as soon as ready to harvest, serious financial loss to growers and shippers and failure to save needed crops may result unless orders for packages are placed promptly and shipments begun within the next few weeks.

The Department of Agriculture is in receipt of advice from widely separated parts of the United States that there may be a package shortage this season unless growers and shippers are able to anticipate their needs. It will be difficult for manufacturers to meet the emergency should abnormal demand for additional packages for perishable crops arise in the midst of the harvest season. At that time, it is pointed out, traffic on railroads will be heaviest and shipments may be much delayed when most needed. The responsibility of manufacturers to put forth every reasonable effort to help meet the situation should not be overlooked.

Few persons, specialists of the department say, realize the enormous quantities of barrels, baskets, crates and similar containers that are used each year. Containers for fruit and vegetables are very bulky. It is quite apparent it would be nearly impossible for factories to accumulate in advance and store a supply sufficient for the total needs of the fruit and vegetable crop of the country. The only safe plan is for each grower and shipper to order his supplies now. The department points out that such prompt action will tend to speed up the manufacture and delivery of packages and may save many thousands of dollars' worth of crops.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"AMERICA—THAT'S ALL"—A Triangle release featuring Jack Deveraux and Winifred Allen, and a two reel Keystone comedy, are today's attractions. In "America—That's All," Jack Deveraux plays a role that he himself terms a "bull part." Being of Irish descent Mr. Deveraux naturally has a cheerful and optimistic disposition. The story is one of business life. The old picky king having accumulated sufficient money is desirous that his son shall marry English nobility. To this end his picky majesty hires a genealogist to plant him a family tree and dig up a crest. He has his wife tutored in French and employs an artist to paint the family group, also a series of portraits of imaginary ancestors. The old financier has little trouble in getting what he wants until he tries to force his son into marriage. The son is in love with an American girl and will have nothing to do with Lady Vere de Vere, so father has him ejected from the house and likewise from the office parlor. Movie marries the girl, however, and she conceals a method of cornering the vinegar market, thus bringing father to terms. Tomorrow, Hattie Love, the charming Triangle star, will appear in "A Daughter of the Door." Friday, Blanche Sweet will be seen in "The Silent Partner," a five part Paramount attraction. Saturday's feature attraction is "Raiders of Blue Ridge," starring Bos-

ale Barriscale.

ARCADE THEATRE.

color, beautiful gowns, girls and catchy music. Today and tomorrow the bill will be Daniel Russell's musical comedy, "A Night in Chinatown." It is bristful of clean comedy and good original musical numbers. Billie Byrne, the clever female impersonator, will be seen in the role of "Fifi, Queen of Chinatown." Charlie Byrne will handle the comedy and gets into many funny situations with Walter Marlon who guides him through Chinatown. In one scene the company shows how moving pictures are made with Walter Marlon as the camera man and the company impersonating famous movie stars. Kitty Taylor will sing "If I Were a Man," Ethel King will sing "I Can't Keep My Eyes Off the Girl," and Walter Marlon "When the Maple Leaves Are Falling." Billy and Charlie Byrne will conduct a singing contest. The chorus of this company can both sing and dance and are frequently on the stage. Taking it all together this company put up a great show.

SOISSON THEATRE.

Madame Clifford was greeted last evening by a large and appreciative audience, all eager to take advantage of this woman's wonderful power of second sight. The longer she remains the more popular she becomes. Young and old men and women all seem anxious to get an answer to the questions that are most vital to themselves. "Silent Mora" still pleases, and amuses all. He is accompanied in one of his acts by a lady who carries off the honors of the situation with as much sangfroid as if he depended on her. Franklyn Farum and "Brownie" Vernon are screen favorites and will please all in "Bringing Home Father," a five reel comedy.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"A SMALL TOWN GIRL"—A five reel William Fox drama featuring June Caprice. June Caprice, the girl with the sunny smile, gets mixed up in a thrilling crook story in her latest picture, "A Small Town Girl." With the help of little Jane Lee, she heads the gang thieves over to the police. It is a story of a country girl who goes to New York to take care of her aunt's little girl. There in the squalid surroundings of a first avenue tenement June meets Frank, her old sweetheart back home, who had come to the big city to make good. Also a good comedy, "Tomorrow Jackie Saunders in the live reel Mutual drama, "The Checkmate."

The Wagon Wheel Paradox. A very interesting paradox is the one concerning an ordinary wagon wheel, which is solid and rigid, yet, when fastened on its axle on a wagon, when the wagon moves part of the circumference of the wheel which is in contact with the ground is for an instant at absolute rest, while the point directly perpendicular to it is flying along at a high rate of speed. The two points horizontal with the center of the wheel are traveling pretty fast, but only half as fast as the topmost point, and as the upgoing horizontal point increases in speed the downgoing one slows up until it is at rest for a moment when in contact with the ground. Yet the wheel is one solid piece and there are only two points going at the same rate of speed at the same time. Yet if the wheel is taken off the axle and rolled down an incline every point of the circumference moves at the same rate of speed.

Cap'n Warren's Wards

by JOSEPH C. LINCOLN

Copyright, 1911, by D. Appleton &amp; Co.

The captain's last remark that evening was made to Edwards, whom he met just outside the door of his bedroom.

"Commodore," he said, "a barn full of rats is a nuisance, isn't it?"

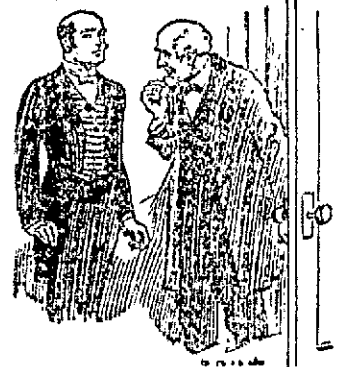

"Why—why, yes, sir! I should think it might be, sir."

"Yup! Well, I know a worse one. It's a house full of mysteries. By, by, son, pleasant dreams."

He sat up until late, meditating profoundly. Then, taking from its envelope the letter yet unopened, which he had written to Miss Abigail Baker, he added this postscript:

"Eleven o'clock. I have decided, Abbie, to accept the guardianship and the rest of it for a spell anyhow. Shall notify the lawyers in the morning. Necessary is one thing, and pleasant is another. I doubt if I find the job pleasant, but I guess it is necessary. Anyhow, it looks that way to me."

Announcement of Captain Elsha's decision followed quickly. Sylvester, Kuhn & Graves received the telephone message stating it, and the senior partner was unqualifiedly delighted. Kuhn accepted his associate's opinion with some reservation. As for Mr. Graves, when the information was conveyed to him by messenger, he expressed disgust and disapproval.

"A barn full of rats is a nuisance, isn't it?"

"I don't," he said, "doctor, I simply must be up and about within the next few days. It is necessary that a sane, conservative man be at the office. Far be it from me to say a word against Sylvester as a lawyer, but he is subject to impressions. I imagine this Cape Codder made him laugh, and therefore, in his opinion, is all right. I'm glad I'm not a joker."

The captain said that he would be down later on to talk things over. Meanwhile, if the "papers and such" could be got together, it would "sort of help along."

When Mrs. Corcoran Dunn made her daily visit to the Warren apartment that afternoon she found Caroline alone and almost in tears. Captain Elsha had broken the news at the table during luncheon, after which he went downtown. Stephen, having raved, protested and made himself generally disagreeable and his sister correspondingly miserable, had departed for the club. It was a time for confidences, and the wily Mrs. Dunn realized that fact. She soothed, comforted and within half an hour had learned the whole story. Incidentally she learned that a possible five hundred thousand was the extreme limit of the family's pecuniary resources.

"Now you know everything," sobbed Caroline. "Oh, Mrs. Dunn, you won't desert us, will you?"

"You may depend on Malcolm and me," said Mrs. Dunn. "We're not the kind of folk who desert friends. And, after all, it is not so very bad. Affairs might be very much worse."

"Worse! Oh, Mrs. Dunn, how could they be? Think of it! Stephen and I are dependent upon him for everything. We must ask him for every penny. And whatever he says to do we must do. We're obliged to."

On Thursday afternoon as Captain Elsha sat in his own room reading a book, he had taken from the library there came a knock at the door.

"Come about five," ordered the captain. Caroline entered, her uncle rose and put down the book.

"Oh," he exclaimed, "is it you? Excuse me. I thought 'twas the commodore—Edwards, I mean. If I'd known you was comin' callin', Caroline, I shouldn't have been quite so busy."

"Thank you," answered his niece. "I came to see you—I suppose you might call it business. At any rate, it is a financial matter. I shouldn't detain you long."

Captain Elsha was a trifle discomposed.

"Oh," he said, "on business, was it? I hoped—I didn't know but you'd come just out of sociability. However, I'm mighty glad to see you, Caroline."

"Captain Warren," she began, "I—I came to ask a favor. I am obliged to ask it because you are our—our guardian, and I can no longer act on my own responsibility. I wish to ask you for some money."

Captain Elsha nodded gravely.

"I see," he said. "Well, Caroline, I don't believe you'll find me very close fisted. I think I told you and Steve that you was to do just as you'd begin in the habit of doing. Is your brother allowance too small? Remember, I don't know anything about such things here in New York, and you must be frank and aboveboard and tell me if "You have any complaints."

"I have no complaints. My allowance is sufficient. It is the same that father used to give me, and it is all I need. One of the maids, Annie, has trouble at home, and I wanted to help her."

The captain nodded once more.

"Annie," he repeated, "that's the rosy faced one, the Irish one?"

"Yes. Her father was seriously injured the other day and cannot work. His hip is broken, and the doctor's bill will be large. They are very poor, and I thought perhaps—"

She hesitated, faltered and then said brightly, "Father was very sympathetic and liked to have me do such things."

"Sho! Sho! Sartin! Course he did. I like it too. I'm glad you came to me just as you did, Caroline. How much do you want to start with?"

"I don't know exactly. I thought I might ask our own doctor to attend to the case and might send them some medicine and food."

"Good idea! Go right ahead, Caroline. How'd the accident happen?"

"Caroline's eyes snapped. "Indeed it was!" she said indignantly. "It was a wet morning after a rain, and the pavement was slippery. Mr. Moriarty, Annie's father, was not working that day, and he had gone out to do the family marketing. He was crossing the street when an automobile, recklessly driven, so every one says, drove directly down on him. He tried to jump out of the way and succeeded, otherwise he might have been killed, but he fell and broke his hip. He is an old man, and the case is serious."

"Dear, dear, you don't tell me! Poor old chap! The auto fellow—did he help?"

"Seems to me he ought to be the one to be expending the money. 'Twas his fault."

"Help! Indeed, he didn't! He and the man with him merely laughed as if it was a good joke, put on speed and disappeared as quickly as possible."

"Why, the mean swab! Did this Mr. Moriarty or the folks around get the license number of the auto?"

"No. All they know is that it was a big yellow car with two men in it."

"Hey! A yellow car?"

"Yes. Somewhat similar to the one Malcolm—Mr. Dunn—drives."

"So, so! Hunt! Where did it happen?"

"On St. Nicholas avenue, near One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street."

"Fifty St. Nicholas avenue, you say?"

"Yes," Caroline rose and turned to go. "Thank you, Captain Warren," she said. "I will tell Dr. Henry to take the case at once."

The captain did not answer immediately. With his chin in his hand he was gazing at the door.

"Good afternoon," said Caroline.

"Er—wait just a minute, Caroline."

Her uncle looked up.

"Er—wait just a minute, Caroline."

He said, "But have your doctor go right ahead and see to the old man, and you order the things to eat and whatever's necessary. But afore you give Annie or her father any money I'd kind of like to figure a little mite."

His niece stopped short, turned and stared at him.

"Oh," she said slowly and feebly, "I understand—thoroughly. Don't trouble to figure, as you call it. Oh, why did I humiliate myself? I should have known!"

"Caroline, please!"

But the girl had gone, closing the door after her.

Half an hour later the captain called upon Malcolm Dunn, who was much surprised to see him.

Captain Elsha took the offered chair and dropped his hat on the floor beside it.

"Well," observed the young man after a moment, "what's the trouble, admiral? Better set it off your chest, bud'n't you? We're private enough here."

"I came to see you about an automobile," said the captain.

"An automobile?" The young man was so astonished that he actually removed his feet from the desk. Then he burst into a laugh. "An automobile?" he repeated. "Captain, has the influence of the metropolis made you a sport already? Do you want to buy a car?"

"Buy one?" It was Captain Elsha's turn to show irritation. "Buy one of them things? Me? No, Mr. Dunn, I ain't that. But one of the hired help up to our place—Caroline's place, I mean—is in trouble on account of one of the dratted machines. They're poor folks, of course, and they need money to help 'em through the doctor's bill and nurse's and while the old man's out of work. Caroline was for givin' it to 'em right off. She's a good hearted girl, but I said—that is, I kind of counseled her out of it. I thought I'd ask some questions first. Here's the first one: Don't it seem to you that the right one to pay for the doctor's bill and nurse's and such of Mr. Moriarty—that's Annie's pa—ought to be the fellow who hurt him? That fellow instead of Caroline?"

"Sure thing! If you know who did it let 'em pay the bill."

"Um-hum. So I thought. And if he was a right minded chap he'd be glad to help the poor sufferer, wouldn't you think so?"

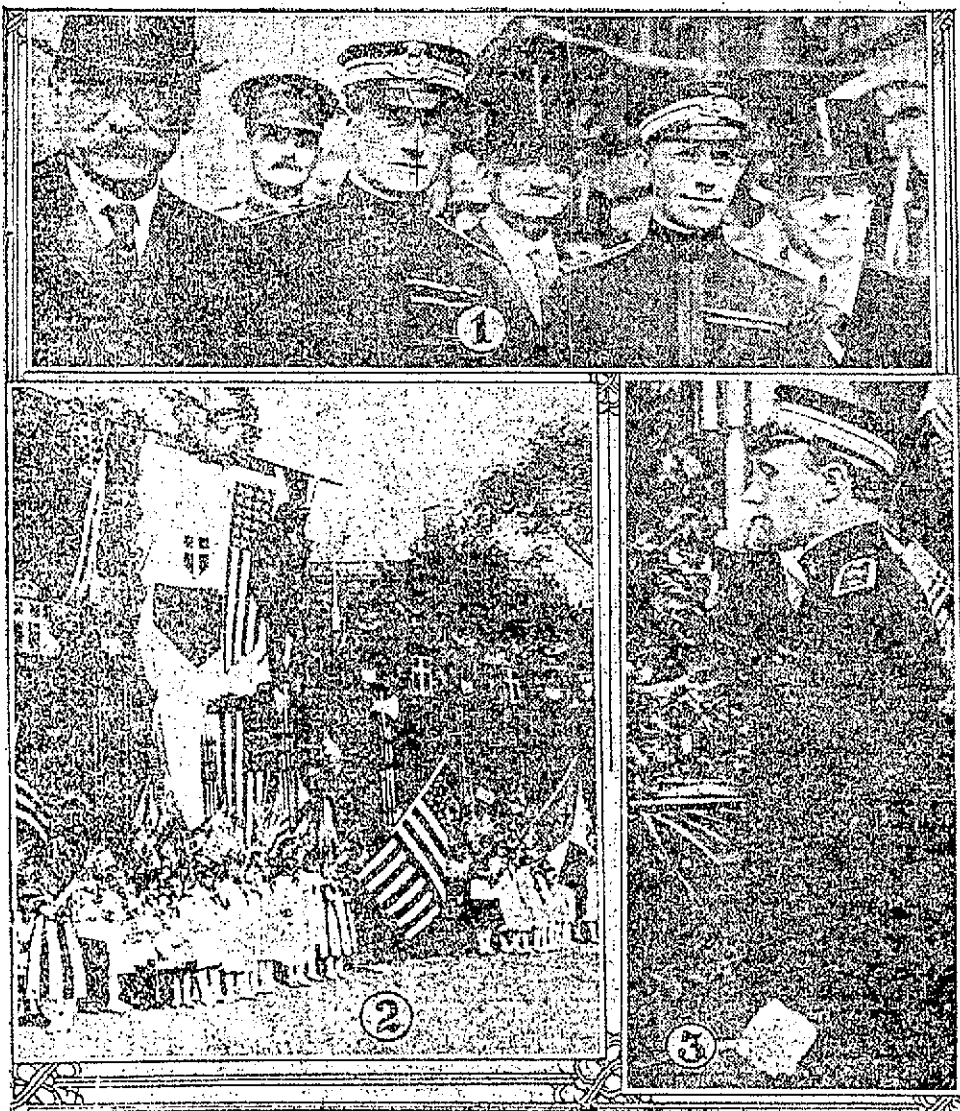

Malcolm nodded sagely, opened his mouth to speak and then closed it again. A sudden recollection came to him, an alarming recollection.

"Where did this accident happen?" asked Mr. Dunn, his condescending smile absent.

"At the corner of St. Nicholas ave-ue and One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street. It happened last Friday morning a week ago. And the car that hit him was a yellow one. Naturally, when I heard about it I remembered what you told Mr. Sylvester and me at the club that afternoon. I understood how 'twas of course. If you'd known you'd really hurt the poor old man you'd have stopped to see him. I understand that. But—"

"Look here," interrupted Dunn sharply, "did Caroline send you to me?"

"Caroline? No, no! She don't know 'twas no automobile at all. But afore she spent any of her money I thought you'd ought to know, because I was sure you wouldn't let her. That's the way I'd feel, and I felt 'twas no more honest to give you the chance. I come on my own hook. She didn't know anything about it."

Malcolm drummed on the desk with nervous fingers.

"Well," he growled pettishly, "how much will it take to square things with the gang? How much damages do they want?"

"Damages? Oh, there won't be any claim for damages, I guess. The Moriarty don't know you did it, and there's no reason why they should. I thought maybe I'd see to 'em and do whatever was necessary, then you could settle with me, and the whole business would be just between us two. Outside the doctor's bills and food and nurse's and such all the extra will be just the old man's wages for the time he's away from the factory. 'Twon't be very heavy."

"All right! I'm in it. I can see that, and it's up to me to get out as easy as I can. I don't want any newspaper publicity. Go ahead. I'll pay the freight."

Captain Elsha arose and picked up his hat.

Malcolm, frowning heavily, suddenly asked a final question.

"Say," he demanded, "you'll not tell Caroline or Steve a word of this, mind?"

The captain seemed surprised.

"I guess you didn't catch what I said, Mr. Dunn," he observed mildly. "I told you the whole business would be just between you and me."

"Thank you, Uncle."

CAPTAIN ELSHA had been pretty well satisfied with the result of his visit to young Dunn at the latter's office. Malcolm had surrendered, perhaps not gracefully or unconditionally, but he had surrendered, and the condition—secret—was one which the captain himself had suggested.

Captain Elsha found some solace and forgetfulness of the unpleasant life he was leading in helping the stricken Moriarty family. Annie, the maid at the apartment, he swore to secrecy. She must not tell Miss Caroline of his visits to her parents' home. Dr. Henry also, though he could not understand why, promised silence. Caroline herself had engaged his services in the case, and he was faithful.

"Goin' to be a pretty expensive job, ain't it, doctor?" asked the captain of the physician.

"Rather, I'm afraid."

"All right. If expense is necessary don't be afraid of it. You do just what you'd ought to and send the bill to me."

"But Miss Warren insisted upon my sending it to her. She said it was a private matter and one with which you as her guardian had nothing to do."

"I know. Caroline intends to use her own allowance, I suppose. Well, let her settle with it. 'Twill please her. But when it comes to the settlement call on me. Give her any reason you want to. Say a—er—wealthy friend of the family came to life all at once and couldn't sleep unless he paid the costs."

"But there isn't any such friend, is there, Captain Warren? Other than yourself, I mean?"

Captain Elsha grinned in appreciation of a private poke. "There's somebody else," he admitted. "I'll pay a share, anyhow. But anyhow, you saw wood or bones or whatever you have to do, and leave the rest to me. And don't tell Caroline or anybody else a word."

News from the Moriarty sick room continued favorable for a time. Then with alarming suddenness a change came. The broken hip was mending slowly, but poor Pat's age was against him, and the shock and long illness were too much for his system to fight. Dr. Henry shook his head dubiously when the captain asked questions. And one morning at breakfast Edwards informed him that the old man was dead.

Captain Elsha, though not greatly surprised, was shocked and grieved. It seemed such a needless tragedy, almost like murder, although there was no malice in it. And the thought of the fatherless children and the poverty of the stricken family made him shudder.

But just before evening his business had disappeared. He had just returned to his room, after stepping into the hall to drop his letter in the mail chute, when his next knock came at the door.

"Captain Warren," she began hurriedly, "the last time I came to you—the last time I came here, I came to ask a favor, and you—I thought you—"

"Yes, Caroline," he said gravely, "I know what you mean. Won't you—won't you sit down?"

"Captain Warren," she began once more, "the time I came to you in this room you were so I thought, unreasonable and unkind. I asked you for money to help a poor family in trouble, and you refused to give it to me."

"No, Caroline," he interrupted, "I didn't refuse; you only thought I did."

She held up her hand. "Please let me go on," she begged. "I thought you refused, and I couldn't understand why. I was hurt and angry. I knew that father never would have refused me under such circumstances, and you were his brother. But since then, only today, I have learned that I was wrong. I have learned—"

She paused. The captain was silent. He was beginning to hope, to believe once more in his judgment of character, and yet with his hope and growing joy there was a trifle of anxiety.

"I have learned," went on his niece, "that I was mistaken. I can't understand yet why you wished to wait before saying 'yes,' but I do know that it must have been nothing because you were unkind nor ungenerous. I have just come from those poor people, and they have told me everything."

Captain Elsha started. "What did they tell you?" he asked quickly. "Who told you?"

"Annie and her mother. They told me what you had done and were doing for them, how kind you had been all through the illness and today. Oh, I know you made them promise not to tell me, and you made the doctor and nurse promise too. But I know some one had helped, and Annie dropped a hint. Then I suspected, and now I know. Those poor people!"

The captain, who had been looking at the door and frowning a bit, suddenly glanced up to find his niece's eyes fixed upon him, and they were filled with tears.

"Will you forgive me?" she asked, rising from her chair and coming impulsively toward him. "I'm sorry I misjudged you and treated you so. You must be a very good man. Please forgive me."

He took her hand, which was swelled up in his big one. His eyes were moist also.

"Lord love you, dearie," he said, "there's nothing to forgive. I realized
